Intensive Course in Dermato-Cosmetic Sciences, 17. – 21. September 2018 in Brüssel

Informationen des Veranstalters:

The course offers an intensive training programme, designed for those of graduate and postgraduate status, in the field of dermato-cosmetic sciences. Our aspiration is not only to provide up-to-date reliable scientific information of university standard regarding the preparation and production of chemically and toxicologically well-defined products, but also of the close interaction between dermatologic or cosmetic products and the skin as a living organ. The course is aimed to form specialists for the cosmetic industry, the dermatologically oriented pharmaceutical industry and for professionals in research and development, scientists, marketers and training people involved in dermato-cosmetics.

Key questions to be tackled by the course

- How to realise daily skin care and how to deal with the delicate napkin zone?
- The microbiome of human skin: a hype or a key factor for maintaining a healthy skin?
- How important is the barrier function of the skin?
- What is “sensitive skin”?
- What are the newest findings concerning skin aging?
- How can one efficiently protect the skin from premature aging?
- Efficacy testing of cosmetics is a part of the new Regulation N°1223/2009/EC: what to expect and how to deal with it?
- How effective are skin care products? Can their efficacy be objectively evaluated by the use of non-invasive methods on humans? Are there new techniques available?
- How important is dermal absorption for the safety of dermato-cosmetics?
- How safe are dermato-cosmetics today?
- Is the application of in vitro methods for safety evaluation of cosmetics possible today? How can we test safety and efficacy of cosmetics without experimental animals?

Date and location

The Intensive Course in Dermato-Cosmetic Sciences will be held from Monday, 17 September to Friday, 21 September 2018 at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Medical Campus Jette, Laarbeeklaan 103, 1090 Brussels, Belgium.
